DEAR SPONSOR,

WHO WE ARE:

The George Mason University Computer Science Club saw its inception in April 2023, and has since seen incredible growth since. With the goal of uniting students interested in computer science, the organization has held multiple meetings averaging over 100 attendees. The Computer Science Club is also working with the University's Computer Science department to help deliver an enriching and memorable experience for all.

WHAT IS HACKFAX?

HackFax is looking to be the Computer Science Club's biggest event. It is an opportunity to unite students together to imagine, innovate, and execute original projects that will spearhead the future of computer science.

HackFax will be an in-person 36-hour event looking to attract students of all majors, colleges, and expertise across the country.
